Abstract

The problem of managing village assets is a problem that often occurs in villages in Indonesia. The basis of this paper is research on the implementation of Permendagri No. 1 of 2016 concerning Asset Management in Villages in Japanan Village, Mojowarno District, Jomabang Regency. Village Asset Management is divided into three aspects, namely Village Asset Management and Planning, Transfer and Administration of Village Assets, Deletion, Utilization and Security of Village Assets. The policy implementation approach used is from the merilee's theory. Grindle who divides the success of implementing a policy can be viewed from two sides, namely the content of policy and the content of implementation. The entire research was conducted in a descriptive qualitative research scheme with data analysis techniques using interactive models from Miles and Huberman. The findings from the research are that the forms of Village asset management efforts carried out in Japanan Village, Mojowarno District, Jombang Regency are not in accordance with the concept of Law and Implementation of Permendagri No.1 of 2016 Concerning Village Asset Management in Japanan Village, Mojowarno District, Jombang Regency have not been successful. In the review of the implementation theory of Merilee S. Grindle for the content of policy dimensions, there are still many implementers and policy targets who do not understand the contents, aims and objectives of Permendagri No.1 of 2016 concerning the Management of Village Assets. Meanwhile, in the context of implementation, the inhibiting factors what was found was that not too much effort had been made by the District Government in implementing this regulation.
